Running a business is not for the faint of heart. For the few business owners who succeed, it's a grueling pace from sunup to sundown, with never enough hours in the day to get it all done.

How Rockstar Business Owners Win Back Right At 8 Hours A Week

Running a business is not for the faint of heart. For the few business owners who succeed, it's a grueling pace from sunup to sundown, with never enough hours in the day to get it all done.

It's easy to believe that no one cares about your business the way you do, and before you know it you are running the front office, the back office, and the sales office, all while managing the work in the field.

Eventually, you'll run out of time; not only the time to run your business, but the time to live and enjoy your work-life balance.

Savvy small business owners know that the key to success is found in making the most of their time, so they can make the most of their lives (and make some money along the way too)!

Want to know what one common practice sets apart successful small business owners from the ones who fail?

Successful business owners stick to what they know and hire experts to manage the rest.

These experts can include accountants, payroll processors, tax experts, and HR specialists, just to name a few.

We've come up with a list that shows how rockstar business owners get back almost 8 hours a week (that's 410 hours a year), just by outsourcing a few of the tasks that take up the most time and give them the biggest headaches!

Here's how rockstar business owners get almost 8 hours a week (that's 410 hours a year), just by outsourcing their HR related needs.

- New Hires 8 hours a year
- Payroll 52 hours a year
- W2 Filing and Distribution 8 hours a year
- Researching Benefits Packages 40 hours a year
- Shopping for Workers' Compensation 40 hours a year
- Commercial Insurance Quotes 100 hours a year
- Workers' Compensation Claims 50 hours a year
- Compliance Issues 40 hours a year
- Unemployment hearings 20 hours a year
- Researching HR Issues 52 hours a year

You went into business for yourself so you could build the kind of life you wanted to live; a successful and financially rewarding life. Finding the right experts to help you is the key to your success.

The Ultimate Guide to Choosing the Right PEO

If you're ready to find someone to take over that list, you'll want to begin to look for a PEO (Professional Employer Organization). A PEO can help you stop chasing your tail and start focusing on the parts of your business that actually make you money.
